

emergencies and drills

All companies need to count on an Emergencies Plan which indicates the procedure to be followed and in the event of an exceptional situation. When an emergency comes about, it is a good opportunity for the company to reflect and implement an improvement software application.

The same is true of emergency drills, which represent an opportunity to test this software application without having to wait for a real emergency situation to come about, therefore providing an opportunity for valuable learning.

Counting on records which document the results of the emergencies and drills provides further evidence of the organisation's commitment to safety.

use

This Emergencies and Drills application, along with the recommended practice, will allow you to:

- Plan the emergency drills, indicating the location and scope and the auditing team in charge of completion.
- Document the sequence of events in each emergency and emergency drill.
- Describe the proposed improvement opportunities, with people in charge and deadlines.
- Inform employees by e-mail or through the corporate safety portal of the tasks assigned, ensuring they are not forgotten about or left unfinished.
- Attach files with all supplementary information.

this software application is recommended if...

- You have an emergency drills plan to be carried out.
- You want to publicise the emergencies and proposed action plans.
- You need an emergency records tool.
